

Linear VS Circular economy

In the circular economy approach, waste is minimized, and everything has value, aiming to create a loop.	True
Circular economy in fashion emphasizes extending the lifespan of garments through practices like repairing, reusing, and recycling.	True
Linear economy promotes the use of biodegradable materials to mitigate environmental impacts.	False
The circular economy encourages collaboration across the fashion industry to create closed-loop systems for material usage.	True
Circular economy practices in fashion have no impact on consumer behaviour or purchasing decisions.	False
In the traditional linear system, fashion products are manufactured according to the logic of "take-make-use-dispose."	True
In the circular economy, waste is considered a resource and utilized as a raw material.	True
The circular economy does not concern the design phases but only the subsequent ones.	False
Fashion upcycling extends the life of clothing.	True
The circular economy is synonymous with recycling.	False
Many circular fashion brands implement take-back programs.	True

